No Wonder!

Carolyn loudly demanded to the newspaper customer service rep, "Where's my Sunday paper?" The rep answered, "Ma'am, today is Saturday. Your Sunday paper won't be delivered until tomorrow."

There was a long pause at the other end of the phone, followed by a muttered, "Well, crap. No wonder there was nobody at church this morning!"

Found It!

Jack & Pat were lying in bed together. Suddenly she felt his hand on her shoulder. She murmured gently, "Ahhh...nice." His hand moved to her breast. She grew more excited. "Sweetie, that's wonderful." His hand moved to her leg. She moaned, "Honey, don't stop!" But then he stopped. "Why did you stop," Pat asked. Jack responded with a click. "Because I found the remote." Jack's expected to be released from the hospital on Monday.

The Easy Way

A man called his banker to check on his account. "Your finances are in terrible shape," said the banker. "Your checking account is overdrawn and your loan is overdue."

"Yeah, I know," said the man. "It's my wife. She's out of control."

"Well, why do you let her spend more than you have?" asked the banker.

"Frankly," sighed the man, "because it's easier to argue with you than her!"

Belief

When the local church found out their small town was going to get a new tavern, they started a petition Campaign and regular prayers to block the bar from opening.

Work progressed uneventfully until the night before the bar was set to open and a huge storm blew through and a lightning bolt struck the bar and it burned to the ground.

The church folks were quite "smug" until the bar owner sued them on the grounds that they were responsible for his building's demise, either through direct or indirect actions or means. In court, the church vehemently denied all responsibility or any connection to the building's demise.

As the case concluded, the judge looked over the paperwork and commented, "I'm not sure how I'm going to decide this, but it appears from the paperwork that we have a bar owner who believes in the power of prayer and an entire church congregation that doesn't!"

DISCLAIMER

All mistakes are there for a reason. It tends to make everyone happy and I aim to please.
